Rehabilitation Bureau Officials Will Extend Aid To Local Committee

The State Bureau of Rehabilitation today advised E. D. Christie, local chairman, that it would co-operate to the utmost in the annual observance of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, which will be held this year from October 5-11.

Tom E. Williams, manager of the bureau's Wilkes-Barre district office, which includes Bradford, Columbia, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Wayne, Montour and Wyoming Counties, said he and his staff will work with Veterans Organizations, Unions, Medical Societies, State Employment Service, Crippled Children Societies, employer and other interested groups and individuals in making the annual observance a success.

"In reality we observe Employ the Physically Handicapped Week throughout the year," Williams said, "because we are constantly rehabilitating disabled persons to the point where they are available for and capable of fulfilling gainful jobs."

During the past year some 10,000 Pennsylvania citizens, many from the local area, were included in the Bureau's case load. Many of these persons have already completed their rehabilitation programs and now are available for jobs in various fields. Others will be ready for employment at different times throughout the ensuing year.

Massive Rock, Earth Movement On New Jersey Project

Highway Is To Connect With Bridge

Thirteen New Jersey properties are affected by the multi-million dollar approach to the Delaware River bridge at Delaware Water Gap currently being undertaken by the New Jersey State Highway Department.

While no structures on the properties have been leveled to date, notices to owners and tenants to vacate have been issued and the razing is expected to start shortly.

Peter W. Kero, Inc., contractors of Lynhurst, N. J., have about 150 men on location now and are progressing with the first phase of operation, grading the four mile stretch from Columbia, N. J., to Kittatinny Beach.

Listed first for erasure is the home of Ernest Olschewsky near Kittatinny Beach Inn. Others to be subsequently removed are owned by John S. Cortright, Grant Lanterman, Albert Stackhouse, Edith Simpson, George C. Vilk, Nelson Able Jr., John G. Cann estate, Elton F. Struble, Grace Van Kirk, Joseph Taylor, Stewart George and George Swezey.

The administration building of Camp Weygant also is listed for tentative removal. It lies on the right-of-way, but may not be destroyed.

Six bridges will be on the four-lane highway and a number of access roads by-passes and parking areas will be incorporated into the project when complete.

One of the biggest and most dangerous undertakings along the stretch of road paralleling the river is cutting into 32 feet of solid rock and guarding loose stones from plunging onto the proposed highway.

Kero's workers daily drop deep into the rock formations and each morning discharge dynamite to loosen the obstruction. John Ditch, superintendent for Kero, estimated the mountain to be 700 feet high where men are working and heavy machinery is gradually inching forward to cut the stone.

As the tons of rock tumble to the existing road, trucks move into position and transport the excess boulders, some weighing several thousand pounds, to the bank of the river where they will be used to bolster the river's edge.

In a section just south of the solid mass of rock lies tons of loose stones which have been considered a menace to progress. To effectively stymie any slides, two large concrete bands have been built near the bottom. The concrete, 225 cubic yards, was worked into loose stones and once the highway is finished, a large stone wall will parallel the road to prevent any rocks from reaching that section.

Oscar Vogel, principal engineer for the state, explained extra measures will be taken by bolstering the heavy wall with reinforced sections along the 600 foot stretch. The sections, spaced about ten feet apart, will be constructed under the highway, toward the river's bed, where a huge pile of rocks, at some places 40 feet high, will serve as the block. "With this type construction there can be no danger of the wall going out," Vogel said.

The new highway will pass under both bridges of the Lehigh and New England and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroads near Columbia. At the former location the new road will be at the same level as the existing one and the highway will pass under the DL&W crossing about four feet above the present level and 25 feet to the east.

Robert Ordish, office engineer for the state indicated the work is expected to be completed by Kero on schedule: June 15, 1953. Ditch said his men will work through the winter months to speed work and at full production probably will employ 250 men.

A mountain is literally being moved to supply the fill needed in construction. At many points along the proposed highway deep ravines are to be filled and the over-all work will require about 600,000 cubic yards of dirt, Ditch said. To date about 180,000 cubic yards have been moved. In one section just south of the rock formation, a hole 50 feet deep will be filled with about 170,000 cubic yards of dirt.

Raine Dies In Florida

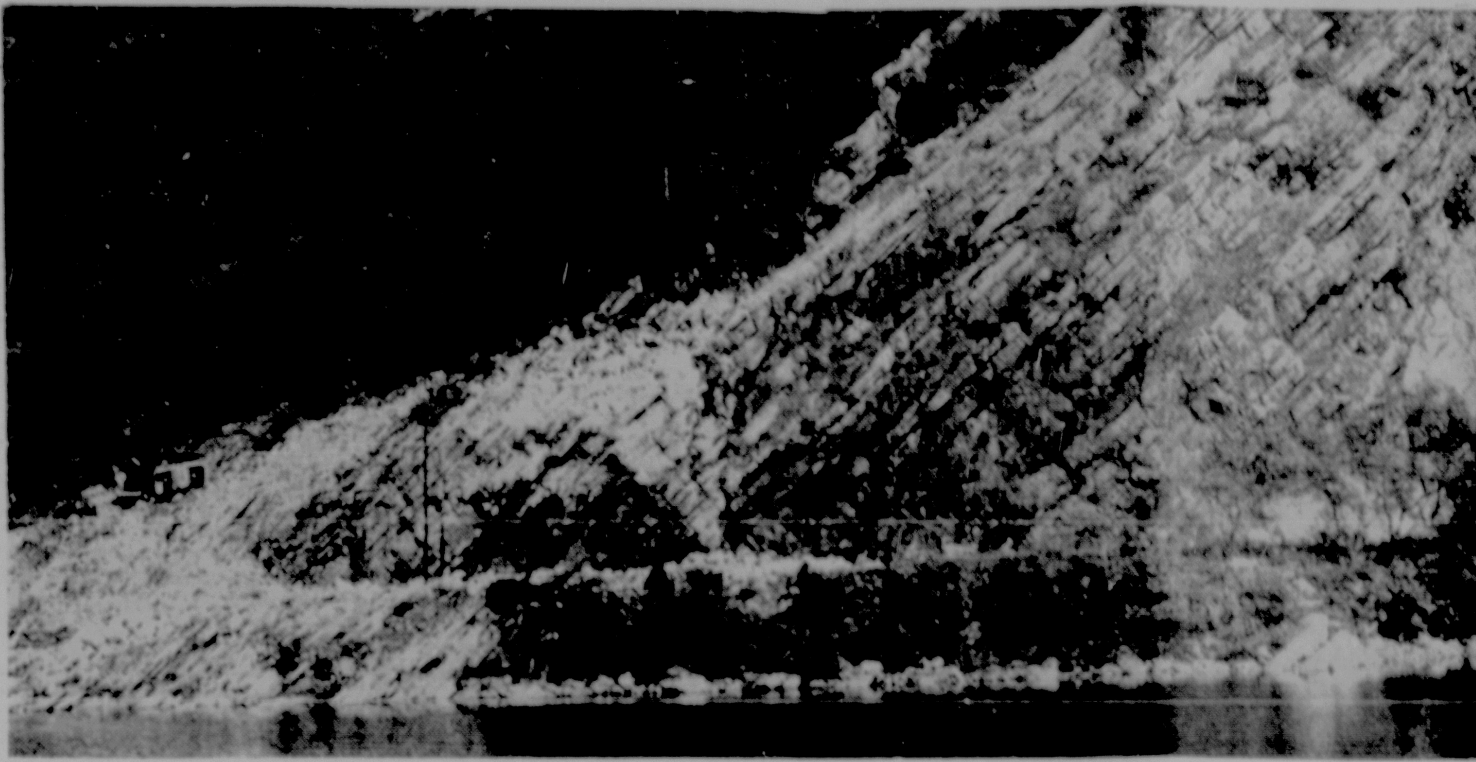

Word has been received from Coral Gables, Florida, of the sudden death of Wendell P. Raine on Friday, September 12.

Mr. Raine was connected with The Wharton School at The University of Pennsylvania, and for the past year was at The Miami University in Florida.

Mr. Raine's wife, Alice Chase Raine, with Mr. Raine spent all their summers at Mount Pocono where they had a summer home.

Mrs. Raine is a sister of Mrs. Mary Chase Lockwood, the owner of The Wiscasset Country Club, Inn and Cottages and The Wiscasset Golf Club, which she leases to Vance Megargel.

Temperate and Arctic seas have more life in them than do tropic seas.

FROM THE PENNSYLVANIA side of the Delaware River can be seen the thousands of tons of solid rock being removed to make way for the New Jersey approach to the Delaware River bridge at Delaware Water Gap. Workmen will cut into the 700-foot-high mountain 32 feet from the existing road.

District VFW Meeting Will Be Held Here This Sunday; Delegates From 19 Posts

Delegates from 19 posts will attend the 20th District VFW meeting at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Stroudsburg VFW home.

It will be the first session under the newly-elected commander, Paul V. Weary Sr.

Appointments for operation of the district through 1952-1953 will be reported, and the meeting will mark the start of the 1953 membership drive.

Object of the VFW this year is to create a new post in each district. Charles Falvey, Easton, has been appointed from the 20th district to the department membership committee. He will work with the county membership chairman on next year's drives.

The steering committee which attended the State encampment over the Summer in Pittsburgh will report through Frank J. Weller, past district commander.

At the meeting plans were drawn up for a district rally as a part of the annual round-up which will be held on Saturday, October 18.

Organization of a program will be under the direction of Ray Hartman, chairman of the Camping and activities and the personnel of that committee.

The rally will be a meeting of all scouts in the district and will feature contests, demonstrations and a national jamboree patrol camp site.

Object of the latter is to provide some preparation for the third national jamboree to be held on Irvine Ranch, Santa Ana, Calif., on July 17-23, 1953.

At last night's meeting plans were also made for the participation of local Boy Scout units in "getting out the vote" for the November elections.

The next Modern Round Table discussion will be held on Oct. 28 at the Stroudsburg municipal building.

Donald Ban MacCrimmon, great Scottish musician, wrote the lament, "MacCrimmon Never Will Return" before he followed Bonnie Prince Charlie in the campaign of 1745 and died in the Rout of Moy.

Funeral services for Daniel D. Williams, 103 Perry St., East Stroudsburg was held at 2 p. m. yesterday at Lanterman funeral home, Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Interment was made in Stroudsburg cemetery. Pallbearers were Albert Groner, East Groner, Lewis Walters, Walter Stem, Charles Stump and Travis Sesse.

No Wonder Drug Cure-All For TB

There still is no wonder drug cure-all for tuberculosis.

That was the statement of Dr. Ross K. Childerose at the State Tuberculosis and Health Society fall conference which ended yesterday at Allentown.

"With all of the new drugs," he said, the one treatment always prescribed is bed rest."

However, the doctor struck a note of optimism on what might happen in the future, according to Mrs. Estelle L. Fleming, executive secretary of the TB Society in Monroe County.

He described the periods of discovery as coming in waves. Between waves, there would be a quiet period when not much was found out nor discovered. At present, the doctor thought, the world is riding one of the "waves" and new discoveries are being made rapidly.

Dr. Childerose went over the history of tuberculosis, said it had been noted that some Egyptian mummies showed evidence of spinal TB, setting the first authentic instance of the disease before the birth of Jesus.

The Bible, in Deuteronomy 28:22, gives an accurate description of tuberculosis symptoms.

The physician touched on the discovery of the tubercle bacillus and moved on to streptomycin, one of the recent drugs which made headlines as a possible TB cure.

First, he said, streptomycin was given in large doses. More recently it has been found to be evidently more effective in small doses and when used together with other drugs, in selected cases.

It has been used with a drug popularly labeled "PAS" for the last few years in TB treatment. More lately it has been used in conjunction with two related drugs, "isoniazid" and "iponiazid."

The last two named drugs were discovered within the past 12 months by two drug company laboratories working independently in New Jersey. Both made nearly identical findings, announced them about the same time.

Are there any new "wonder drugs" coming up?

Well, Dr. Childerose indicated, he has talked with some research chemists who said new discoveries have already made isoniazid and iponiazid "old." But such drugs will be a long time a-testing. Tremendous research must be done.

Dr. C. S. Flagler will be out of town Sept. 29 to Oct. 2.—Adv.

before new drugs can be used with assurance of safety.

In the meantime, great strides are being made. There's no cure-all yet for TB, but, the physician indicated, doctors and chemists will keep trying to find one.

Attending the two day session, besides Mrs. Fleming, was Mrs. William E. Levering, director of the local TB society, and Helen Fahringer, also a member of the local unit.

Nine Men Are Inducted In Armed Forces

Nine men left Stroudsburg this morning for Wilkes-Barre where they will be inducted into the armed forces.

Mrs. Beulah McConnell, chief clerk of local board 105, revealed the following men have been ordered into service:

Clyde H. Wallingford and John E. Darr Jr., both of Stroudsburg; Ralph G. Kindrew, East Stroudsburg; Frank A. Lipynic and Merlin G. Gower, both of Saylorsburg; William A. Peechatka, of Tannersville; C. K. Roulette, Shawnee; John C. Malin, Hazleton and Richard K. Arida, Providence, R. I.

Mrs. McConnell yesterday reminded Monroe County youths to register for induction when they attain the age of 18. She noted many parents and youths indicate that are unaware of the Selective Service Act which requires all boys to register on their 18th birthday, or within five days after that date.

National Dog Week

The last time anybody thought to make a rough count, the country's promoters, advertising men, publicity men, press agents, and even some staid U. S. Government bureaus, had divided the year up into more than two hundred "Weeks." They range in purpose and in seriousness from National Brotherhood Week to National Laugh Week.

One of the oldest, and certainly one of the worthiest, deeply serious in its intent, constructive in its approach, complete altruistic in purpose, is National Dog Week, which this year falls in the week of September 21 to September 27.

This year's National Dog Week is quite possibly the most important in the event's long history, for it marks the 25th consecutive celebration of the event. Through two wars, a major depression, the boom and bust of the early twenties, through the Jazz Age, through the radio, television and motion picture age, National Dog Week has not only survived but every year takes on bigger importance.

Mostly, what National Dog Week seeks to do is focus the attention of 156 million Americans on the dog. And having nailed down the public's attention, it goes on to educate it to a better understanding of dogs, their place in civilization, their proper care. It is truly dedicated, with the zeal of few other enterprises, to the welfare of the dog.

Today, twenty-five years after the first National Dog Week, we have better dogs, and better cared-for dogs, than ever before. It wasn't always thus. Not even as late in civilized history as the year 1928. Early in the year, a small group of people with vision, headed by Captain Will Judy, of Chicago, got together. Judy had analyzed the status of the dog in our civilization and he didn't like what he found. But he saw a bright future for the dog.

In 1928, there was no year-round organization working unselfishly for the general welfare of all dogs. Today the National Dog Welfare Guild, the organization which grew out of National Dog Week, works the year around to help dog owners solve their problems, to encourage more research, to stave off legislation unfair to the dog and in general to improve, wherever it needs improvement, the welfare of the dog.

Nobody can precisely sum up what National Dog Week has done for the dog; nobody can measure all the ways in which the dog himself has improved in the last twenty-five years. But certainly, the dog has come a long, long way.

Pick's 'Moderation'

Recently a Congressional investigating committee reported large-scale "squandering" on U. S. air bases in North Africa.

LT. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of Army Engineers, in charge of the project, denounced the Congressional report as "over-critical" and said he was "pleased" with progress of the airfields.

Lately, General Pick admitted "deficiencies do exist." But he said they could be fixed up for a mere $1,160,610 additional. This, he said, was "moderate."

He didn't mention that $220 millions already had been spent on only two of the five proposed air bases, all of which were supposed to cost "only" $300 millions.

General Pick's idea of "moderation" is enough to give a taxpayer the DT's.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—I do not wish any one among the audience to get the idea that maybe my genes are not distributed in orthodox fashion, but the truth is that today I am in one of those moods where it is extremely difficult for me to like women.

Mind you, on the best day I ever lived I would not be able to do without women, as the original rules intended, and there are innumerable days, ranging from sunny to rainy, on which I just look out my windows at the lovely little ankles tripping by and I murmur bless them, bless them all.

However, dames have a habit of making you dislike them. Recently I spent a lazy, detached afternoon revisiting the scene of my childhood, which was the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills. They were holding the national lawn tennis championships, which 15 years ago used to fill me with fire and grim determination to improve my forehand but which now afford me only mild amusement.

Tennis players, and I guess this includes me, are such funny people. Funny peculiar, not funny ha-ha.

One of the matches was between Nancy Kiner, the tall, ear-ring-bedecked young lady who is married to a baseball player, and a New England woman in her early thirties who should have known better as should we all than to be out there in the hot sun.

What the fair Nancy did to the early-thirty dame drop-shot her. It must have been 100 in the shade that day, and Nancy used the most beautiful drop-shot you have seen, over and over. This means that in the middle of a driving rally she would just dump the ball over the net so the opponent, caught deep at her baseline, would come stumbling up to get it, not come close, and fall on her face. It's a lovely, vicious shot and I wish I could make it.

Making such a shot is sound technical tennis, and you employ it often if your opponent is creaky in the joints and no longer able to gambol about the lawn like a all-right, like a colt. It is one of those things that make tennis so sporting. You discover your rival's weak spot and play it long and heavily.

However, Mrs. Kiner did it so casually, so impressively, I kept watching for her to look sympathetically at her aging, floundering opponent. But no. She was all business. I shouldn't have been surprised, because I have seen women tennis players do this before, endlessly. But you know me. Old hopeful.

That was one of the items that got me a little miffed about women—the cold, calculating men of a female tennis player. The other was the behavior of a Hollywood performer named Marilyn Monroe.

Miss Monroe came to town the other day to plump for Monkey Business, a new film she is in, and I made a date to breakfast with her at Reuben's. That was for 10. Well, first the date was switched to 11 and the scene switched to her hotel room—and after that I waited around for a half hour, or until 11:30, for Miss Monroe to show. I could have spent the time picking horses.

She never did show. The harassed press agent finally told me she was in the next room having her hair done and why didn't I interview her through the bedroom door, hah hah. I went along with the gag and I interviewed her through the bedroom door, which was slightly ajar, but she didn't say anything breath-taking, and try as I might I couldn't even get an angle look at her in

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

The Danger of Ignorance
I get it in my fan mail but it is particularly noticeable in question time after lectures and speeches—a satisfaction with ignorance, even a pleasure, a delight with an avoidance of knowledge and facts and a repetition of unprovable prejudices.

In the realm of public questions, I often find that our people are ignorant of our form of government. The Presidential campaign, each four years, is badly-lashed into such a circus as Mussolini would have enjoyed had he not feared defeat. The result is that far too many of our people believe that we have a Presidential form of government when actually the Constitution reduces the authority of the President and elevates the power of Congress. Mr. Truman has made that mistake since he was elected to his second term and it took a Supreme Court decision to put him in his place.

Similarly, far too many of our people are ignorant of the history of our country and the traditions of our people. They fail to grasp that the essence of our civilization is the liberty of the individual human being, as a gift from God, as clearly defined in the Declaration of Independence.

The abolition of poverty may be a virtuous ideal but its accomplishment must not, in our tradition, involve the abolition of liberty. When human beings become dependent upon the political power of the state for their livelihood, the independence of person, the dignity of person, must disappear. It is the identification of economic survival with police power that destroys the right of individual to liberty.

This spectacle we have now witnessed in some 15 or 16 countries. The abolition of poverty is the ideal of Marxism but the Communists have reconstituted slavery as a human institution. Whereas in our civilization, the concept has been that for every man there must be equality of opportunity to achieve what his own abilities, application, fortitude and labor will produce, in the Marxian concept of a governmentally planned society, every person must be reduced to the position of a mechanical creature subject to the necessities of those who control the state.

Hard times, such as our recent depression which lasted from 1929 to 1941, will produce alterations in the thinking of a people, but the danger is that generations will arise who are completely cut loose from the traditions of a civilization. The shocking condition in our land is that the older people, those who knew America before Roosevelt, should have forgotten what they once believed, that freedom for the individual, political and economic, built this great society. The private ownership of property and the recognition of superior accomplishments by individuals is the essence of a free society.

In the 1930's, every country developed a Stalinesque type, but each was different. Men's minds turned from the Natural Law to the Golden Rule. When the law prevails, men are governed by absolutes, by the restraints that are imposed by God to man. Even among peoples who are outside the Judeo-Christian-Moslem civilizations, these moral restraints appear in myriad forms but always based upon the same concept, namely, that of a power outside ourselves that makes for righteousness, as Matthew Arnold once put it.

However, in the 1930's, the trend seemed universal to turn from the law of life to the great man, the inspired, superior individual who became infinitely wise and competent. Nietzsche's Übermensch—the Superman—became an adored creature, almost worshipped for his greatness and goodness. Of such, Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini and Roosevelt wore the best known. But smaller gods also appeared. It is to be said for Great Britain and France that they passed through this period without becoming subject to this trend, although De Gaulle could have been such a figure and Anwarin Bevan obviously aspires to this type of glorification.

The British and the French avoided the trend because they had kept alive among their peoples the fundamental traditions of their races. Their peoples are not ignorant of the meaning of liberty, and even when the British tried Socialism, they feared the loss of liberty.

If our civilization is to survive, our people must not be ignorant of the meaning of America. The re-education and the re-dedication of the American people, it would seem to me, is the really big task that faces us.

Try And Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

It was the second day of the honeymoon, and the young husband remarked, "I didn't realize you always drank coffee for breakfast. What'll we do? I always drink tea." "That's all right, dear," soothed the bride. "You'll soon get used to coffee!"

"Don't you criticize dear mamma," shrieked the Missus. "Everything I am today I owe to her." He flipped a quarter over to his wife. "Credit to mamma," he mocked cruelly. "It'll square your account with her."

When Martin and Lewis learned from their accountant how much of their year's fabulous income would have to be sheltered right out again in taxes, Jerry Lewis quipped—with an honest tremor in his voice—"Our entire success we owe to Uncle Sam!"

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The Democrats continue to embarrass Gen. George C. Marshall by sowing out loud over the hatchet job on his record undertaken by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Both President Truman and his captive candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Gov. Adlai Stevenson, erupt periodically at the tier of Marshall's military reputation. The general himself retains his painful silence, privately hoping that some day his political defenders will close their traps for good. Just like anybody else, he isn't anxious to talk about his blunders.

Unlike McCarthy, who used only friends of Marshall to shed the general's military genius, I'm going to give you a word or two from Marshall's critics. I do not hold that Marshall is dishonest, but simply go along with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, of Great Britain, who considers the general and Secretary of State Dean Acheson considerably less than the geniuses they are put up to be.

Churchill, in commenting on the policy of the armistice negotiating in Korea, states that Chiang Kai-shek lost Manchuria and North China because he was forced by the United States to accept a similar armistice with the Chinese Reds.

That was Marshall and his buddy Acheson, who helped write the directive when the general trotted over to China for the sellout.

Everybody, of course, thinks McCarthy and Senator William Jenner of Indiana invented the attack on Marshall's reputation. Everybody is wrong.

Marshall got his first going-over when the Republican Congressional committee, more than two years ago, adopted a visual aid program to explain in detail how the administration—Marshall, Truman and Acheson mainly—lost China by their stupidity and got us into a shooting war in Korea.

The committee, composed of 50 able Republican members of Congress, supervised the preparation of the visual aid film strip. Long before McCarthy got into the act, it tore Marshall apart for his fumbling in China.

Gen. Ike Eisenhower is a great exponent of visual aids. He used them extensively in the army to train soldiers. He has urged the widespread use of the GOP visual aids in the current campaign.

Eisenhower has defended Marshall's patriotism. He has also indulged the use of the film strip on Korea after viewing it twice on recent occasions. He acted like a man getting his eyes opened for the first time, when he witnessed the presentation of facts regarding Marshall's blundering.

Just recently I got my hands on an excellent book, "The Korea Story," written by John C. Caldwell and published this year by the Henry Regnery Company.

Caldwell is a former State department employee and missionary. He spent considerable time in Korea and accompanied Marshall on his mission to China when the general tried to talk the loyal Chinese into a wedding with the Chinese Reds. Marshall also wanted the U. S. to equip and train ten Chinese Communist divisions as a gesture of good will. A sensible Congressional committee prevented him from doing so.

Caldwell, like most anti-Communist employees of the State department, got a kicking around from Marshall. As he relates it in his book, he was asked to prepare a report on anti-American propaganda in China. He did so, to his everlasting regret. Here is his story:

"I sent the report to Washington as directed. A few weeks later I was overwhelmed to find my name in connection with items of the report, outlined in the Shanghai papers. Someone in Washington had released the report. The report was honest and objective. Its release could mean only a change in policy, perhaps a promotion for me."

"But I was naive indeed. At the direction of General Marshall then Secretary of State, a most insulting telegram, accusing me of insubordination and of maliciously adding to the friction between the United States and Russia, was sent to me. I had committed the then unardonable sin of reporting something that would hurt the feelings of the Communists. Later, in a cable signed by Marshall, I was stripped of all authority. The climax came that very night when I heard myself denounced by radio Moscow as a war monger! Moscow and Washington were shouting in complete harmony as far as I was concerned."

Watch Truman and Stevenson reach for the crying towel on this one. There is a lot more coming.

About 90 per cent of the business buildings in Seoul, Korea, have been destroyed in the four times the city has changed hands since June, 1950.

There are nearly 250,000 farms in Ohio.

HEAVY ELECTORAL COLLEGE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

They may not like us any too much in Europe and on the other continents, but they certainly imitate us enough to make us wonder what there is about us that is so charming.

For instance, the Literary Gazette of Moscow ran a scathing editorial about Russian parents who give their children American names.

Such names as Harry, Eleanor, Dwight and Adlai had no place in Russian nomenclature, the editorial said.

Parents should cling to such "well known, natural" names as Tamara, Irina and Sophia for girls or Andrei, Jacob or Fedor for boys.

Such names as "Detektor, Radiola, Elektrifikatsionka and Krackung Kombinez" were also condemned. They smacked of capitalism, the editor said. They were all right for American bourgeoisies, but not for Russian "demokratia."

In Cairo, the fez manufacturers have made a strenuous protest against a plan to introduce the Texas style sombrero in Egypt instead of the traditional Moslem hat, consisting of a red inverted flower-pot made of felt and ornamented with a black tassel.

The Social Affairs Ministry had suggested that the ten-gallon hat is more practical than the fez because it provides protection from the sun.

According to the fez makers, the change would throw thousands of Egyptians out of work—the bedroom mirror, which was visible.

Behavior like that was entirely indefensible, even if Miss Monroe had apologized, which she did not. I left her suite finally, thinking to myself that men actors are pretty hopeless people but they usually have the grace to apologize when they have been on the boorish side.

Well—there they are, just a couple of incidents in a New York camp, as Browning would say. But for a while now they have had me a little sour on women. Nothing that a good night's sleep and a smile from a beautiful blonde don't fix.

Sure wish I could have gotten a little look at that Monroe in the mirror, though. Even if she does have no manners.

Hollywood—It's that audience warm-up that perplexes Eve Arden.

The movies' good-hearted, brassy blonde does a TV-film version of radio's "Our Miss Brooks" before a studio audience of 300 every week. The warm-up, in which the players greet the spectators and tell a few jokes to put them in a responsive mood, is customary with most audience shows.

"First we tried a vaudeville routine of corny jokes," Eve said, slapping her knee and imitating a hayseed guffawing at the latest crossroads gag. "But that was no good; the show couldn't follow it." (The show has a quieter type of humor.)

"Then we tried telling no jokes at all, but that was no good either. The audience has to be given the idea, 'This girl tells jokes.' So now we tell jokes. We've used one of them for four weeks, and I'm petrified. Suppose the same people come back and hear it again!"

Miss Arden and her actor husband, Brooks West, are a busy couple. He plays Cathy Lewis' hesitant boy friend, Richard Rhineland, on the "My Friend Irma" TV show. What with rehearsals and Eve's Sunday radio show, the couple never have a day off together. "We may sue CBS," Eve quipped.

Miss Arden's half-hour "show" is filmed with three cameras in one complete run, like a play. She likes that: "It's the nearest thing to the theater for me. We did a whole show in 48 minutes the other night, including cos-

The Once Over

Russia has bought one more palatial estate among the show places of Long Island to house its top envoys in a manner to which the proletariat is unaccustomed. It formerly owned the J. P. Morgan place at Glen Cove and is at present occupying the fabulous Pratt mansion there, but has added the super-duper estate in Upper Brookville to house its new U. N. delegate, Valeria A. Zorin, and his aide.

The house has 28 rooms. This is about par for a top-level Communist leader in an all-out battle for the downtrodden masses. It has been done in 32, but 38 to 45 rooms enable a Soviet bigwig to put more heart into his work for the underprivileged.

The house, like the others, has more than a dozen luxury bathrooms in which a vigorous U. S. S. R. envoy, in good form, can sing to the best effect while shaving. The size of a bathroom is important to Russian requirements. It takes more room to hold a Russian melody rendered with gusto than almost any other type of music. Here, too, there is an extra commodious dining room done in the royal manner where a Soviet delegate may find every comfort and ample elbow room. (Moscow, while in conflict with most everything else in the world, believes eating is a good thing and that nothing should be done to minimize, limit, circumscribe or control it.)

The halls are wide and rangy and time changes. And nobody made a fluff until our sixth show. "Irma" is done live, which can present complications. "How can I say, 'I love you darling!'?" Eve's husband said for illustration, rushing across the room and kissing her rapidly "with that second hand sweeping around the clock toward the end of the show."

West is a tall dark-haired native of Hillsboro, Tex. He studied dramatics at the University of Texas, served in the Army, and acted on Broadway with Bergman, Lund, and Fontanne. He was recruited to Eve by Barry Sullivan when she was looking for a co-star in summer stock two years ago.

"I think I fell in love with Brooks the first week, the calm, easy way he superintended our 21 pieces of luggage in train stations," Eve said. They were married a year ago.

Signal Depot Personnel Will Be Hired Starting June, 1953; None Earlier

Reports that hiring at the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot would begin in February, 1953 are unfounded, Signal Corps authorities in Washington said today.

In a recent outline of hiring procedure under Civil Service regulations, together with an outline of the type of jobs to be filled, Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D., Easton, Pa.), emphasized that no hiring will be done now and that an adequate announcement would be issued when labor recruitment at the depot is needed.

However, reports published in other communities attempted to fix an early 1953 labor recruitment date.

The Signal Corps pointed out that it had issued a statement on February 1, 1952, announcing that hiring of civilian personnel was not expected to begin before June, 1953. This remains the earliest date at which any hiring will begin.

At that time it is anticipated that the depot will be activated and key personnel will be transferred from existing depots to form a nucleus for the personnel force, and a limited number of personnel will be employed for training purposes.

The Signal Corps said that it expects to begin full scale operations about January 1, 1954, and staff the depot to the desired strength. Approximately 1,500 to 2,000 persons are expected to be employed between June 1953 and July 1954. These plans are contingent upon completion of construction now going on and future appropriations.

All hiring will be done in accordance with U. S. Civil Service regulations by the civilian personnel office at the depot, after the Signal Corps has established a Board of Civil Service Examiners through the Philadelphia Regional Office of the Civil Service Commission, and the board has established a register from which the depot will draw personnel. Applications for employment already submitted will be considered at that time.

Personnel required at the depot will include: Administrative personnel; general clerical workers; electronic and radio specialists; radar, radio and electronic repairmen; mechanic's helpers; inspectors; packing and crating and box makers; personnel workers; electric accounting machine and statistical employees; carpenters and general repairmen; material handling equipment operators; laborers; warehousemen; guards; firemen and housekeeping personnel.

The new Army Signal Corps depot is being constructed under the direction of the Philadelphia Office of the Corps of Engineers and is located on a 1,400-acre tract between Stroudsburg and Scranton. It will provide the Signal Corps

Rally Will Be Held Friday

Another Christ ambassadors rally is scheduled for this Friday, September 26, at 7:30. This time the rally will be at the Full Gospel Assembly of Paradise Valley, William H. Douglas, pastor.

A group of students from the Eastern Bible Institute of Green Lane, Pa., will be ministering in song and in the Word of God at the rally. The students will drive to the church Friday afternoon to minister at the rally and will continue there over the weekend to conduct a special service on Saturday night at 7:30 and the two regular Sunday Services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Each church is seeking to win the banner which goes to the church having the greatest number present. At present the banner is held by the Assembly of God Church of Stroudsburg.

The churches participating in the rally are the First Stroudsburg Assembly of God Church, J. Russell Cairns, pastor; The First Pentecostal Church of Bangor, Anthony Sorbo, pastor, and the Full Gospel Assembly of Paradise Valley, William H. Douglas, pastor.

First Group Guidance Plan Will Be Started This Year At SHS, Wells Announces

Stroudsburg's first genuine "group guidance" program will have its beginning this year at the local high school.

Students, divided into groups of not more than 30 individuals, have been assigned to a specific "homeroom" for the guidance program.

The assignments, according to Assistant Principal Samuel Wells, have been made on a strict "guidance" theory as opposed to the usual method which takes into consideration only numerical proportions.

In at least one important aspect, the Stroudsburg program will differ from many such guidance setups used by schools—it is intended primarily as a "student participation" system with the faculty limiting its activity to positions as advisors and supervisors.

Students will pick their own programs, Wells said, and will have jurisdiction over the choice of chairmen in addition to setting up panel discussions.

In the "upper three grades," faculty supervision will be less strict than in the groups arranged for the lower three, Wells indicated.

The lower three grades will begin their discussions with the topic "School Citizenship" followed by specific discussions on vocational, organizational meetings for the group guidance program were held last Wednesday. The groups will begin operation today.

The present program is an outgrowth of three years' study of guidance systems used in secondary schools by Wells and Principal Alfred Munson.

Although the program is in an experimental stage every effort will be made to "make it work" in conjunction with the personal counseling program already in use at the school.

Dr. K. Phillipsberg's office will be closed from Sept. 19th to Sept. 29th, inclusive.—Adv.

Services For Richard Oakes Are Arranged

Services for Richard E. Oakes, 33, Franklin Square, Long Island, former Cresco resident, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Thomas Quinn and Son funeral home, Queens Village, Long Island.

Burial will be at Flushing, Long Island, cemetery.

He was engineer on the tanker F. L. Hayes, which collided with another ship and burned in Wilmington, Del. Harbor on May 15.

The body was recovered Sept. 5 from the ship, which was raised and towed to Baltimore. Identification was made last Friday at Baltimore.

Oakes had been in the U. S. maritime service since before World War Two, and had been aboard the tanker about two years.

Ten men were aboard at the time of the collision. Six were saved and four went down with the ship.

Oakes had lived in Cresco about 15 years ago, then went to maritime school in Philadelphia.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Oakes, Cresco; wife, Mae, and two sons, Norman and Douglas, Franklin Square, L. I.; and four sisters, Mrs. Theodore Vernoy, Canadensis, Mrs. P. C. Thomas, Knoxville, Tenn., Vera Oakes, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Audrey Oakes, Cresco.

Radiators Are Small, Efficient

Although 10 per cent smaller than their predecessors, modern radiators give off just as much heat and are much more attractive, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

New radiators, supplying radiant heat through either hot water or steam, may be described generally as "under-the-rug" radiators. Instead of the bulging, tubular monster of a radiator with many, slender tubes in your home, a radiator that may be recessed completely in the wall and concealed by a slatted enclosure.

In its best location in the home—under the window—the radiator counteracts incoming drafts and sends a continuous stream of sun-like rays straight to the living zone of the room, where it counts most. The air is also warmed by convection or currents set in motion by the radiant heat given off at the radiator. It is clean, healthful heat and excellent protection against winter colds and ills.

The principal advantage of radiator heating, says the bureau, is that, when the thermostat shuts off the heat supply, the radiators do not cool immediately. Therefore, there is a constant source of heat in the room, which compensates for the continual heat loss. This tends to prevent the possible chilling effect which might take place if the entire source of heat were cut off at once.

Particularly gratifying from the point of view of homeowners and decorators is the fact that these radiators are so small and good looking they blend inconspicuously and harmoniously with the finest furnishings.

Extra Kitchen Light Fixture

A kitchen with only a single ceiling fixture is poorly lighted, no matter how much electric wattage is used, because shadows are cast on work surfaces. Modernize and provide shadow-free light by placing fluorescent tubes over sink, range and work surfaces. The outmoded incandescent center ceiling light may be replaced by a 3 or 5-tube fluorescent fixture with egg-crate baffles to diffuse the light.

Fluorescent tubing behind a ceiling cover all the way around the room gives excellent general illumination. Work areas require additional light.

Mending Flashing

Small holes in metal flashing can be filled with plastic roofing compound.

The Audrain, according to the working drawings, calls for frame construction and an insulated floor slab laid over a cinder or gravel fill with no basement. Exterior finish is planned to be using and asphalt shingles.

The floor plan consists of two bedrooms, bath, utility room, living room, kitchen and a separate dining room.

Space is provided in the utility room for heater, coat and storage closets and a large supply cabinet over the laundry equipment.

Other features in this home include picture window, fireplace, vestibule, covered entrance, recessed bath tub and free dining space placed in the kitchen.

Wardrobe closets, with storage space above each are used throughout.

Overall dimensions are 44 feet by 24 feet. Floor area totals 1,135 square feet while the cubage is 13,464 cubic feet.

Leaky Faucet Is Waster Of Much Water

The critical shortage of water supplies in New England, New York and New Jersey and the lowering of the water table in the nation generally have served to focus public attention on the importance of water conservation, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Millions of gallons of water are wasted annually by leaking faucets and valves, the bureau points out. This waste of water, and fuel required to heat water, could be prevented by repairs or replacement of faucets and valves.

To dramatize the waste of water and fuel resulting from leaking faucets, officials of the water department of a Midwestern city recently checked leaking sink faucets.

It was found that when a faucet leaks 25 drops a minute—which is not at all unusual—the water wasted amounts to 0.10 gallons an hour or 876 gallons a year.

When 700 drops a minute drip from a faucet, the leakage amounts to 0.86 gallons an hour or 7533 gallons in a year. This waste of water not only increases the water bill but also is reflected in the cost of the fuel used to heat the water wasted by the hot water faucets.

Kitchen sink faucets and valves in water closet tanks are usually the chief offenders, the bureau points out. Many of these units are so badly worn that they cannot be repaired. Their replacement will not only be an economy to the owner but will aid in the conservation of water.

Kitchen Lights

In planning the location of lighting fixtures in the kitchen, the prospective home owner should bear in mind that the two focal points of the kitchen are the stove and the sink. These two units should be well lighted, and, unless a center light is strong enough, they should be given individual fixtures.

Basements Are Cleared Of Dampness

Most home owners are pretty much resigned to the fact that basements will be damp, and for that reason they hesitate to plan them for any functions other than heating and storage.

Basements are damp for two reasons, condensation and water seepage from outside. Seepage can often be controlled by covering walls and floor with a waterproofing compound. There are good ones which may be applied like paint. Condensation is more difficult to overcome. In a game room lining the foundation walls with a wall board, knotty pine or other wall material will help materially. On sloping sites such basement rooms can often be provided with fairly large windows which will practically eliminate the problem.

Cockers Are Featured At Sugar Brook

Champion cocker spaniels are the ultimate raising goal of Sugar Brook Kennels at Mountainhome where one dog already has gained the top laurel and two others are on their way to stardom.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Manhart, the kennels had their first good litter of cockers in 1947. Their champion, Sugar Brook Lizzie won that honor at Syracuse last November after gaining points in two previous shows. Lizzie's "Best in Show" came at 10 and a half months in competition at Valley Forge Kennel Club, Collegeville.

Also on the road to fame are Sugar Brook Fancy, a female with ten points and Sugar Brook Counterpoint, a male with five points who was winner at Allentown and best of variety and fourth in the group at Reading recently. He also won at Valley Forge Sunday. Fancy won best in show at Valley Forge and last week made an appearance as a reserve in Virginia. The Manharts are concentrating on show dogs at present and have nine young cockers in their kennels.

Sheltie Will Make Debut In Westbury, N. Y.

A nine-month-old Sheltie (miniature collie) will make his official debut in show circles at Westbury, N. Y. Sunday and its owner, Miss Ann Dudewicz of Cloud Crest Kennels, Mt. Pocono, is expecting big things of the dog named Astolat Courier of Cloud Crest.

Astolat Courier was sired by Frigit Emblem Astolat, a champion of the Astolat Kennels at Effort who has claimed over 66 best of breeds and won working laurels at Allentown recently.

Miss Dudewicz has four full grown collies, two Shelties and five Sheltie pups in her kennels about a half mile north of Mt. Pocono borough.

Redline Is Considering New Breeds

Among the leading kennels in Monroe County is Redline, owned and conducted by Raymond Redline and located one mile west of Stroudsburg on Route 209. The kennels were founded in 1941.

Redline has been breeding beagles and cocker spaniels. He also contemplates starting boxers, Boston terriers and fox terriers.

Champion blood lines in beagles and cockers are only one of the many outstanding features of the Redline Kennels. Numerous people travel there annually to glimpse the kennel construction and have gained valuable information by incorporating the concrete runways on their own farms. Redline has 17 of these runways.

The veteran breeder said he has had great pleasure caring and boarding hundreds of dogs of all breeds from this vicinity, as well as many different states.

African Dog Located Here

A pair of Mexican Chihuahuas and the remainder, cocker spaniels, comprise the list of inhabitants.

Why World Likes Dogs Is Explained By NDW Founder

By CAPT. WILL JUDY
Editor, Dog World Magazine
Founder, National Dog Week

The most unselfish living thing in the world is your dog. If you are in danger, your dog needs only to hear your cry of distress to rush to your aid, without thought of his own life, fearless of guns and enemies.

The most patient thing in the world is your dog, waiting for hours at the top of the stairs to hear the sound of your footsteps, never complaining however late you may be.

The most grateful thing in the world is your dog. Whatever you give him, whatever you do for him, he never is guilty of ingratitude. To him you are the most powerful personage in the world and beyond measure; you are your dog's god; you can do no wrong.

The most friendly thing in the world is your dog. Of all the animal kingdom, he alone serves man without whip, without compulsion, glad to be by the side of his master wherever he may be, whatever he may do, and sad in heart when his master is away.

The most forgiving thing in the world is your dog. The one virtue most humans lack is that of forgiveness. But your dog carries no grudge and no spite. Punish him even undeservedly, and he comes to you, nudges his moist nose into your hand, looks up at you with pleading eyes, and wags his tail.

How HUDSON'S all-time stock car record helps you choose your family car

In stock car races words and claims mean nothing. You can see the make of car you drive compete with the make of car your neighbor drives. Only the results count. When you look at the record you know which car is best.

This year to date, Hudsons, just like those you can buy from us, have won 35 out of 39 stock car races, an all-time record unequalled by any other car on earth.

And how does this help you buy a family car? Well, for example . . .

It proves that Hudson's exclusive "step-down" design—with America's lowest center of gravity—gives you hug-the-road stability, sureness of handling and safety unequalled by any other car.

It proves that Hudson's famous high-compression engines deliver the terrific kind of power you need to get out of tight spots and command the road in any situation.

It proves that Hudson's Monobilt body-and-frame* is the most rugged and by far the safest construction on the road today.

All these qualities are yours in a Hudson—for your pleasure, your pride and your protection. And finally, you don't have to see a stock car race to see Hudson's sleek, streamlined beauty.

Drop in and drive a Hudson, or telephone us and we'll pick you up at your door. You've a thrill coming.

*Trade mark. Patent pending.

OLD MacDONALD NEVER HAD A FARM LIKE THIS

ONE OF THE MOST UNUSUAL farms in the United States is located at Buena Park, Calif., about 22 miles southeast of Los Angeles. It's known as Knott's Berry Farm, but the name doesn't begin to describe all of its varied parts. The farm itself grew from a roadside stand where berries were sold to passing motorists in 1920 to its present 200-acre size. Other fields now produce artichokes and rhubarb plants. Many of the 8,000 Sunday visitors to the farm, however, show up for the specialty of the house—Southern fried chicken and berry pie turned out in Mrs. Cordelia Knott's kitchen by some 80 helpers. But, this is only the food side of the farm. Anyone hunting for flowers can stop off at the nursery, or there's the leather works and the wood-carving shop, or the glass and bottle blowers or the gun store. On the farm also may be found a gift store as well as a dress shop with latest in millinery. Most interesting spot on the farm for many visitors is Walter Knott's Ghost Town, where they can imagine themselves living back in the days of the Gold Rush of 1849. There's the hanging tree, where many a desperado died, the blacksmith's barn, Deadwood Dick's grave on Main street and the Silver Dollar saloon. From a 10-acre berry patch that barely supported them, the Knotts have built up several businesses that employ hundreds of persons.

The "sheriff" pauses outside "jail" to talk with a visitor, Vera Bradshaw.

Handsome Brady and Whiskey Bill, two statues, sit on bench in Ghost Town.

FOR cocktail time, this gown of white and black lace is the latest thing. It's from designer Carosa of Rome, Italy.

SWIMMING COACH Fred Lanoue of Georgia Tech looks like a frog in his special suit he is testing in the school pool. The coach keeps warm by wearing a fur-lined suit underneath.

In the farm's gift shop, visitors can buy wicker baskets and statues and other such items.

Berries from farm are shipped to customers the world over.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

You know how it is when you hear an unusual name—say Spitzberger—immediately you'll be meeting Spitzbergers everywhere you go?

Well find one Easter lily blooming the first day of Fall, and along comes 14 lily plants all in bloom right now—these were in the garden of Mrs. Andy Farris, Bangor, St. East Stroudsburg.

Or you come across a bridal party carrying "half bird-cages of natural reed"; and two or three weddings in succession the bridesmaids will be carrying half bird-cages.

The Junior Woman started out to prove in their fashion show tonight "Fashions in This Changing World" how much fashions have changed, but the first thing you know they kept unearthing things that would fit right into today's fashion picture.

Like maybe the overshoes of fifty years ago—red velvet with black jet on the ankle straps—which would be snapped up in a minute today.

Well, anyway, it's going to be fun to see what fashions are being revived in the current season, and to be able to point out to your husband that even fifty years ago women's fashions were sometimes slightly mad.

Mrs. Wellington President Of Church Auxiliary

Mrs. John Wellington was last night elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church with Mrs. J. Frank Grimm, vice president; Mrs. Charles Allen, recording secretary; Mrs. Allen Zehorik, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Hellmann, treasurer of Missions; and Mrs. Clifford Heller, circle chairman.

These officers will take the place of those whose terms have expired. Others remaining in office include: Mrs. Edward C. Hess, secretary of Stewardship and spiritual life; Mrs. E. H. Wyckoff, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. Wilson Alliger and Mr. Gordon Coy, chairmen of local church support; Mrs. M. R. Kiefer, and Mrs. E. B. Turn, chairmen of overseas and hospital supplies; Mrs. Peter Wyckoff, chairman of social education in action; Mrs. A. W. Williams, treasurer of local church support; Miss Fannie Swartzwelder, key woman for Newville Homes; and Mrs. T. F. Rhodes, pianist.

The auxiliary and their guests last night observed the sequentennial of home missions with a guest speaker, Mrs. Horace Patrick, lay representative of the Board of National Missions and recording secretary of the department of National Church Women.

Mrs. Patrick told of her recent trip to Cuba, laying particular stress on the educational opportunities which have grown from the mission churches established there, and the importance of women in support of national and foreign missions. She was introduced by Mrs. Clifford Heller.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess in her opening devotion called attention to the fact that the local church, soon to celebrate its 125th anniversary, was itself the outgrowth of home missions.

Special music was presented by Mrs. Robert Wolbert, organist.

Local Women Have Part In District Meeting

Local Nurse Is Bride Of R. Phillips

Miss Carolyn Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Miller, Bangor, Pa., became the bride of Robert Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Phillips, Bangor, Pa. The ceremony took place at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday afternoon before the candle-lit altar of Trinity Lutheran Church, Bangor. The Rev. J. Frederick Stoltz, minister of Trinity Lutheran Church, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

White chrysanthemums and pom-poms backed by palms graced the altar. Clusters of pom-poms and white ribbons marked the front pews of the church.

Miss Mona Rutt presided at the organ and provided a medley of nuptial melodies prior to the wedding. Mrs. Cornelia Stiles was soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin. Her finger tip veil of white nylon tulle fell from a crown of orange blossoms.

She carried a white bible with a white orchid with a purple lip and a cascade of Stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Jean Miller, sister of the bride served as maid-of-honor. She was attired in an orchid strapless gown of nylon net with matching headpiece and stole, and carried a half bird cage of natural reed with a banner of pink asters cascading from within.

The bridesmaids, Miss Jean Ronoski, Delores Fatzinger, and Arlene Miller, sister of the bride, were attired in similar gowns of orchid and powder blue nylon net and matching headpiece and stoles and each carried half bird cages of natural reed with banners of powder blue asters cascading from within.

Clair Over, of Bangor, RD 1, served as best man and Perry Reimer, Bobbie Reimer and Stephen Emerich served as ushers.

Gary Ruch served as acolyte.

Miss Sharon Lee Miller, niece of the bride served as flower girl and wore a gown of white nylon net and matching headpiece and carried a small basket of natural reed from which she scattered pink rose petals in the pathway of the bride.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the VFW Home, Meyers Crossing.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left on a honeymoon to Niagara Falls.

The bride was graduated from Bangor High School and St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing and is employed as a nurse at the General Hospital at East Stroudsburg. The bridegroom was graduated from the same school and is employed at Stroudsburg Engine Works.

presents its

YFC Group Honors One Key Leader

Rev. Hubert C. Newton, who has been one of the key leaders in the Youth For Christ organization in Monroe County, was present at a farewell hot dog roast held recently at the home of Miss Mary Comunal on North Fifth St.

He has served as assistant director and teacher in the young people's Bible class which met every Tuesday during the Fall and Winter. It was from this class that two members entered schools of religious education this fall: Bill Benson, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who is entering Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Philadelphia; and the secretary, Miss Marjorie Reynolds, who is going to Providence Bible Institute in Rhode Island.

At the meeting, plans were made for the opening Fall rally to be held on Saturday, September 27, at the East Stroudsburg Baptist Church. It is planned to hold rallies every other Saturday through the Winter.

Miss Alice Bellairs, teaching music in the Stroudsburg grade schools, will direct the choir at the YFC rallies and will arrange all special music.

Guest at the meeting was Robert Ughart, who with his wife were house guests of the Newtons. Ughart has completed four years of college at Wheaton; three years of seminary at Biblical, in New York City; and plans to study the Korean language at Yale for one year before going to Korea as a missionary under the Presbyterian board.

Following the meeting a Covered Dish Supper was enjoyed. Hostesses were Mrs. Hartzell, Mrs. E. L. Kennedy, Mrs. E. O. Reagle, Mrs. Wayne Van Vorst, Mrs. Carpenter.

Homecoming At Cherry Lane Planned By Board

Cherry Lane—Official board and women workers of the Cherry Lane Methodist Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Anglemeyer on Thursday, Sept. 11. This was the first meeting since early in the summer and there was much general discussion.

Plans were completed for the Homecoming Service to be held on Sunday, October 19, when there will be a special program of music and speakers.

Committees were appointed to get the property surrounding the church made more presentable, to further the project of getting a fence, to finish off the new steps, and also to arrange the musical part of the service for Oct. 19.

Many donations both large and small were acknowledged with thanks. Mrs. Helen Shaffer reported the choir, with Miss Grace Brink at the piano, hope soon to have their gowns.

All bills were ordered paid and plans discussed for raising further funds.

Those present at the meeting were Rev. Ralph H. Feltham, who presided, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henry, Mr. and Mrs. William Clugston, Frank Sebring and Lizzie Sebring, Mrs. Bessie Hauser, Mrs. Enory Shaffer and daughters, Nancy and Janet, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Anglemeyer and daughter Lorrie Jean.

"Something New Everyday"

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Warren "Mag" Loney, former athlete of outstanding ability and now Commissioner of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, is the latest to be called in on the diamond dispute involving the eligibility of Ray Steele, highly regarded Bushkill hurler. Steele was first declared eligible, then ineligible and eligible again by league officials. Now the entire program has been turned over to Loney for a final decision. The latest step was brought about when Tannersville protested last Sunday's game with Bushkill, when Steele was announced as the starting hurler.

The Tannersville protest, so this column has been informed, was based on Article X, Section four of the league constitution and by-laws. The section reads, "Any player in this league who receives a tryout with a semi-professional or professional baseball team may return to this league in the same season, provided not more than 60 per cent of the scheduled games for the season have been played." However, the Tannersville club pointed out that the season was virtually ended when Steele signed with the Philadelphia A's, for delivery to Ottawa, of the International League, next season.

Loney's ruling will have an important bearing on the playoff season now being held and will undoubtedly be awaited with interest by all those who have followed the local diamond organization during the '52 campaign. The wording of the by-laws appears to be the loop-hole on which the previous three rulings by the circuit can be questioned. However, it is this column's knowledge that Loney's ruling should end all bickering between clubs, officials and players, at least until the next circuit meeting, be it special or regular.

WVFO will be unable to broadcast the football game between Stroudsburg and Enniscorthy on Saturday, as previously announced. The reason given is the fact that a suitable wiring system needed for the broadcast can't be strung up at the Enniscorthy football field. However, WVFO will do the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College-Millersville grid battle from Millersville. This game is also scheduled to be held on Saturday, Joe Whalen and Joe Webster will do the broadcast.

Reports coming out of Pen Argyl indicate that the green and white clad grid machine will bring a veteran, hard running backfield to Memorial Stadium on Friday, one that can break away on long runs when given only half a hole. The Pen Argyl line is unofficially reported as being inexperienced, but our informant let us know that the green and white forward wall makes up for its inexperience with a strong desire to win. Although the Pen Argyl contingent hasn't played an official game thus far this season, Friday night's visiting club reportedly looked great in practice.

Tommy Besecker, Tannersville, was probably the happiest youngster in the world when the Brooklyn Dodgers clinched the National League pennant by winning the first half of a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies last night, 4-1. Tommy has stuck with the Dodgers through thick and thin and in so doing has been the target of plenty of fun-making in recent months. However, the Pocono High School student is now having the last laugh on all those who tried to make him change horses in the middle of the stream.

Dick Smith and a group of his friends are playing night basketball near the entrance of the International Boiler Works. The players have rigged up a kerosene lighting system which enables them to go through their paces after dark. If nothing else, it shows that the youngsters have a real interest in the game of basketball. This column's record for picking football winners and losers and this early date is 28 correct predictions and two of the wrong variety for a percentage of .810.

Candidates for the varsity basketball team at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College are scheduled to report for a meeting on Monday, September 29, at 7 p.m. sharp. Practice, according to reports, is slated to begin on Wednesday, October 1, which I'm told is the birthday of Chris Denis, new cage mentor at the college located on Normal Hill. John Mackley, former first sacker with Lebanon, when the class "D" North Atlantic League was still in operation, battled in the number five slot for Columbus, of the class "A" South Atlantic League, during the campaign just completed.

Schenectady finished fourth in the class "A" Eastern League this season and it marked the 13th time in 14 years that Manager Danny Carnevale has been a member of a first division contingent. Carnevale formerly managed the Carbondale entry in the North Atlantic League. Following Saturday's game at Millersville, ESSTC plays three straight contests on the home field, with Kings, Shippensburg and Mansfield respectively.

Rocky Marciano

New King Willing To Defend Crown

Philadelphia (AP)—Rocky Marciano, the cut, bruised and bleeding new heavyweight champion of the world, tonight proudly proclaimed his willingness to defend his title and termed Jersey Joe Walcott a "good, tough guy—a helluva fighter."

His dressing room after the bruising, dramatic fight was a scene of utter confusion. Men shouted, glaring lights brought sweat to everyone's faces and in the midst of it all, the new titleholder looked small and subdued.

Low Voice

Finally Marciano was hoisted up on a bench and said in a low voice: "I hit him with a right up against the ropes. His head was at one side and I hooked with a left and he went down."

Nelson To Stay On Ranch

New York (AP)—Byron Nelson's fellow golf pros can wipe away those worry wrinkles. The big guy isn't coming back, except to his ranch. Rumors to the effect he was planning a return to the tournament circuit preceded him to Washington last weekend, where in one of his rare appearances he took part in the Washington Post's Celebrities competition, and he promptly killed them with one swipe of a verbal maul.

"It would be foolish for me to try a comeback at 40," he explained to us. "Besides, I would be jeopardizing everything I have built up at my ranch."

Three Tournaments
"I plan to play, definitely, in only three events—the Bing Crosby Invitational, the Colonial, and the Masters. I can't say about the National Open. I have until the entries close to decide. If I think it would be enjoyable playing the course, I might enter. But right now I can't say."

"But you can say that going back to the tournament tour is farthest from my mind."
"Maybe I was partly responsible for the rumors. Somebody asked me out west about my return, and I jokingly said something like 'If George May doesn't run out of money it might be a good idea.' That's how it started, I guess."

Record Major To Roll
Record Major League teams are slated to roll at the Pocono Bowling Center today, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Shoemaker Signs vs Scheller and Kitchen.

Alleys three and four—Globe Furniture vs VFW.

Alleys five and six—Line Material vs Fabel's Dairy.

Alleys seven and eight—A. C. Miller vs Community Bar.

Cager Barred From Baseball

Columbus, O. (AP)—George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, announced yesterday he has permanently banished Walter Hirsch of Dayton, O., from minor league baseball for his part in the 1949-50 University of Kentucky basketball scandal.

Hirsch played first base this season for Danville, Ill., in the Mississippi-Ohio Valley League. He batted .333, led the club in runs batted in with 95, and was voted the most popular player by Danville fans.

Marciano's Wild Right Crowns New Champ

It was like New Year's eve in Times Square as the good natured Marciano partisans tried to hoist the new champ to their shoulders.

Bleeding from a cut between the eyes and a gash atop his head, Marciano thrust everything he had in one desperate right that crowned a new king to follow in the line of John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis.

The Rock's blockbuster right erupted Walcott with stunning suddenness. Jersey Joe's eyes went blank as he sunk slowly to the canvas from the delayed action effect of the punch.

Down went the "Old Poppy" guy from Camden, N.J., sinking slowly to the deck, down with one knee twisted under him, falling with head down in a strange tableau. There he hung, almost as though he was standing on his head.

In the same ring where Jack Dempsey lost his title to Gene Tunney just 26 years ago, another hungry young fighter hit the jackpot with one terrific punch.

It seemed Walcott couldn't miss his swarthy short-armed target with the jarring left hook that won the championship from Ezzard Charles in July of 1951.

The hook almost ended matters in the very first round of this most exciting heavyweight title battle since the younger days of Louis.

When Walcott's left thudded on the Rock's chin in the first he sank for a four count, the first time he ever had been knocked off his feet.

The huge crowd, estimated at over 50,000, rose, expecting a quick ending. But it sunk back when Marciano came up swinging only to run into another hook that wobbled him at the bell.

Any doubt about Marciano's ability to take it was removed by this exhibition. Old Jersey Joe, often trading punches freely with his challenger, gave his all in a dramatic bid to save the crown. When he resorted to boxing in the eighth, ninth and 10th, he made Marciano look like a novice who winged wild punches that cut only the cool Municipal Stadium air.

Both men fought freely after the bell in the third, fourth and ninth rounds as Referee Charlie Duggert tried to pry them apart.

ESSTC In Final Stages Of Drill For Millersville

Warriors Shine In Brisk Grid Workout

A snappy workout brought smiles to the face of Coach Gene Martin, head football mentor at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College yesterday, as the Warriors went through a rugged drill for Saturday's clash with Millersville State Teachers College, on the Millersville gridiron. Martin termed yesterday's workout the best his charges have turned in this season. The veteran mentor, working feverishly to ready his troops for ESSTC's invasion of Millersville on Saturday, said: "The team showed more drive and spark than it has at any time during the present practice season, but I still wish that we had another week in which to work before the first game."

However, Martin couldn't help but hide his pleasure over yesterday's workout and listed several players who have shown up well in the drill sessions.

Outstanding

Martin pointed out that Martin "Ducky" Martz, a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School, was signaled out for praise in the backfield, while Bob Fabel, who learned his football at Stroudsburg High, is one of the candidates in the thick of the battle for a guard berth.

The ends who have shown up well to date are Jim Douglas, recently returned from the Marines; Bob Brown and Bob Riehl, all veteran lettermen. The tackles going good at the present time are Tom Grater, Roger Neilson and several others. In addition to Fabel, the best looking guards in camp are Ken Cox, Andy Levinidis and Carman Martucci, the latter a former Lehigh High star.

Jerry Murray is the leading center candidate at the present time, but is being pushed by Bill Stoffer and Joe Meyers, the latter a product of Abington, Pa. High. Stoffer is from Pen Argyl.

Top material in the backfield includes Don Toth, Ted Murry, former track star; Art Schaefer, returning veteran; Les Brubaker, Bob Tyson, Tom Smith, Pen Argyl, and Bill Brodt.

Martin plans to put his charges through a rough workout today and tomorrow and depart for Lancaster early Friday night, following a light workout and the evening meal.

Following the Millersville game, the ESSTC eleven will play at home for three straight Saturdays.

Cardinals Nip Reds In Tenth

St. Louis (AP)—Stan Musial, closing in on his sixth National League batting title, last night smashed out three hits, including a triple and a game-winning double in the 10th inning, as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3.

Big Blow

The final blow boosted Musial's batting average to .336—a full six points ahead of Chicago's Frank Baumholtz. It came off right-handed Frank Smith and brought home "Red" Schoendienst, who had singled.

Rookie Jim Greengrass drove in two of the Reds' runs in the fifth with a home run, his fifth in 13 major league games, to boost his runs-batted-in total to 21.

Heart-Broken Walcott Decides To Retire From Ring After Losing Heavyweight Championship

Philadelphia (AP)—A heart-broken Jersey Joe Walcott said last night he was taking his manager's advice and quitting the ring.

Surrounded by photographers, reporters and well-wishers, the 38-year-old veteran of the prize fight ring sat dejectedly on a dressing

Stroudsburg Drivers Listed For Bone Track

Pittston Open competition "sportsmen" racing is the new bill of fare every Saturday night here at Bone Stadium. The Anthracite Auto Racing Association has instituted a new program of stock car racing for the balance of the campaign designed to give regional fans bigger and better racing thrills.

Sportsmen racing is not to be confused with "modified" cars. Sportsmen is "anything you can't see" which would eliminate racing heads and some of the other features of modified cars. A car may be "souped up" to any degree just as long as it doesn't qualify in the modified classification.

Open

Current AARA point leader Ed Spencer has informed club officials that he will be able to compete in every race for the balance of the season. He is in the army at the present time but flies home for the events. Spencer was leading in last week's feature but blew a tire on the 19th lap and was forced out of the race. Winner was Dana Campbell, Harvey's Lake, who captured his second feature in three weeks. He won a 30-lapper on September 5. His brother Clyde is also a top AARA chauffeur.

In addition to the 55 registered AARA drivers, other chauffeurs are expected from Stroudsburg, Pottsville, Allentown, Harrisburg, Selinsgrove and clubs in the western part of the state. A number of Jersey "sportsmen-type" cars are also expected to be entered.

Senators Get Infielder

Washington (AP)—The Washington Senators baseball club announced yesterday it had obtained infielder Wayne Terwilliger.

Very Hard

The Camden, N. J., jolter was taking the loss of his title very hard.

Before the press was allowed into the Walcott dressing room—about a half-hour after the fight—Jersey Joe's manager, Felix Boechicchio, made a statement in the hallway outside the room.

"As far as I am concerned, Jersey Joe has retired. He looked pathetic against the ropes and I don't want him hurt. He still has his faculties and has money in the bank. He's retiring. Joe has been a great champ and that's the way we want people to remember him." Walcott said that whatever Felix decided was okay with him.

Tigers Draw Million, Bow To Browns

Detroit, (AP)—The Detroit Tigers squeezed into baseball's record books last night by becoming the first cellar team in the history of the American League to draw more than a million fans at home.

Bad News

But the 7,888 fans who pushed the Tigers over the million mark saw the St. Louis Browns win, 3-1, behind Bob Cain's eight-hit pitching.

The Browns broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh when Fred Marsh singled home Bob Young and Joe Demaestri with the bases loaded. St. Louis .000 100 200—3 11 0

White Sox Inflict Costly Setback On Indians By Pounding Four Hurlers For Fourteen Hits

Cleveland (7) — Chicago's White Sox swatted the pennant-dreaming Cleveland Indians with a staggering 10-1 defeat yesterday, making first place for Cleveland a long shot indeed.

Only 3,577 fans showed up in cavernous Municipal Stadium to watch the high-flying Indians take their first defeat in seven games.

Pitcher Joe Dobson had them almost completely fooled, allowing only six hits, three singles in the third producing the only Indian run. The White Sox got 14 hits off four Indian pitchers, including Sherman Lollar's 13th homer.

Even if Cleveland wins its three remaining games, the New York Yankees now would need to win only three of their remaining six games for a tie and four for the pennant.

Same Number

The Indians and Yankees have each won 90 games, but the New Yorkers have lost only 58 to Cleveland's 61. That puts the Tribe three games behind the loss column.

Mike Garcia, trying for his 23rd win, suffered his 11th loss as the Tribe's six-game winning streak was snapped.

Slaked to a five-run lead in the first inning, the 35-year-old White Sox helped cement the White Sox's hold on third place. He struck out seven and didn't issue a single walk.

Six of Chicago's hits were off Garcia, who lasted three innings. Lollar's homer produced two runs in the seventh. "Rocky" Kronich drove in three runs with a pair of singles, and Eddie Robinson boosted his RBI output to 102, tying Al Rosen for the league lead, with a bases-loaded single in the first inning.

Umpire John Stevens threw Chicago Manager Paul Richards out of the game in the second inning during an argument over a home plate play.

Yankees Clash With Red Sox In Doubleheader

Boston (AP)—Rain showers soaked Fenway Park and forced postponement of yesterday's game between New York and Boston but the Yankees moved a half game nearer their fourth consecutive American League pennant.

While most of the Yankees lounged around their hotel or went to the movies, the second-place Cleveland Indians were taking a 10-1 shellacking from the third-place Chicago White Sox.

The Yankees and Sox will play a doubleheader today with the first game moved up to noon (EDT).

Best Guesses

Manager Casey Stengel, not a bit unhappy over the Cleveland defeat, said Vic Raschi would pitch the first game for the Yankees "but, after that I don't know right now. We're still taking these games one at a time."

Best guesses were that Of Case would go with Johnny Sain or Bob Kuzava in the second game of the doubleheader as he intends to keep southpaw Ed Lopat for the New Yorkers' final series of the year in Philadelphia over the week end.

Lopat now is scheduled to work Friday.

Allie Reynolds will pitch here against the Sox Thursday and will go again Sunday against the A's.

A's Win, But Lose Shantz

Philadelphia (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics tightened their grip on fourth place in the American League standings yesterday with a 4 to 3 win over the Washington Senators yesterday but lost the services of their 24-game winner, Little Bobby Shantz for the remainder of the waning season.

Shantz, well on his way to victory number 25 with the A's leading 3-0 in the second inning, was clipped on the pitching wrist by one of Walt Masterson's pitches.

Hit By Pitch

Shantz received emergency first aid and took first but later was removed from the game and was rushed to Graduate Hospital where physicians ordered x-rays, which showed a broken wrist.

Masterson was the eventual loser while aging Bobo Newsom, who took over for Shantz received credit for the victory.

Brown Becomes Father Of Son

Dallas (AP)—Dr. Bobby Brown former infielder for the New York Yankees, became the father of a son yesterday, but he doesn't know about it yet.

Brown, in the armed forces and is en route to Japan.

Name

Mrs. Brown, the former Sarah French of Dallas, gave birth to the seven-pound, 12-ounce son early yesterday at a Dallas hospital. The new addition to the Brown family is named Peter Stanley.

Strong Bench, Relief Hurler, Burning Desire Carry Dodgers To National League Pennant

By Joe Falls
Brooklyn, (AP)—Added bench strength, a fabulous relief pitcher and a burning, gnawing desire to erase the spectre of 1951 carried the Brooklyn Dodgers to the National League pennant.

Phillies Split Bargain Bill With Dodgers

Brooklyn (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers won their first National League pennant since 1919 last night as they came from behind to edge the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4, in the first game of a two-night doubleheader. The Phils captured the anti-climatic game, 1-0, in 12 innings before 24,408 fans.

Honor
The honor of clinching Brooklyn's ninth National League pennant since 1919 went to rookie right hander Johnny Rutherford. The triumph was the 26-year-old hurler's seventh of the season compared to the same number of set-backs.

He was in trouble in the early innings but weathered the storm as the Brooklyn bats boomed and sent the Dodgers ahead in the fifth. "Duke" Snider's two-run double clinaxed the Dodgers game winning three-run fifth inning rally.

Hacker Tops Present Earned Run Averages

New York (AP)—Righthander, Warren Hacker, in his first full season with the Chicago Cubs after failing to stick in 1950 and 1951, has forged to the front of the National League earned run listings.

Statistics computed by the Associated Press disclose that the six-foot-one, 185-pound hurler has allowed 46 earned runs in 180 innings for a 2.30 ERA. Figures include games through Monday.

Hacker, a 27-year-old fastballer, has posted a 15-8 won-lost record, including five shutouts. He is scheduled for another start this season against the St. Louis Cardinals in one of the weekend games.

American League
Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, a 19-game winner, maintains his American League earned run supremacy with a 2.07 mark.

The 34-year-old Yankee mainstay, who has six shutouts to his credit, has given up 54 earned runs in 235 innings.

Rookie relief-artist Hoyt Wilhelm of the New York Giants, who was the National League earned run leader last week, has dropped to second with a 2.47 average.

Robin Roberts of the Phils ranks third with a 2.51 ERA.

Big Mike Garcia of the Cleveland Indians is runnerup to Reynolds in the American League earned run ratings. Garcia, a 22-game winner with seven shutouts, has permitted 75 earned runs in 280 innings.

Southpaw Bobby Shantz, the A's mighty mite who has a formidable 24-7 record, holds down third place with a 2.49 ERA, achieved on losing 77 untainted tallies in 278 frames.

Bums Go Wild After Winning 1952 Flag

Brooklyn (AP)—"Great. Great." That seemed to be the only word in the English language that could express Manager Charlie Dressen's feelings and those of his players last night as the Brooklyn Dodgers stormed into the dressing room following their 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies that brought them the 1952 National League championship.

The place was a bedlam of noise. Photographers were flashing bulbs all over the place, newsreel and television cameras were shooting their glaring lights into every nook and corner and reporters were beseeching the athletes to express their feelings.

Carried
Dressen was hoisted on the shoulders of a group of players while light bulbs flashed. Everybody wanted to shake hands with him at once. When some semblance of order was restored, Dressen cleared his voice and shouted:

"The magic number is zero, boys. If they the Giants want to win the pennant, they've got to wait until next year."

Jackie Robinson, the brilliant second baseman, made his way through the mob to Dressen's side. "Skipper," Robinson said, "you were great. If anybody has to be singled out for the most credit, it is you. I think you've done a tremendous job with the pitching staff. I don't think anybody could have done better. For that matter, I think you've handled the entire team excellently. And I think everybody should be made aware of it."

Sauer Signs Contract
Chicago (AP)—Outfielder "Hank" Sauer yesterday signed his 1953 contract with the Chicago Cubs of the National League. Terms were not disclosed.

Nixon Places Political Fate Before GOP's National Group

He said he could have put his wife on the government payroll, mentioning that his opponent, Sen. Sparkman, has put his wife on the payroll.

He spoke from a homey, living room set.

His wife, Pat, sat at his side, smiling slightly, as he pointed out that she is an experienced stenographer.

"I am proud to say tonight that in the six years I have been in the House and Senate, Pat Nixon has never been on the government payroll," he said.

Nixon spoke with hands tightly clenched, serious and at times intense. Occasionally, his jaw jutted out, almost as a challenge.

He had no speech prepared in advance, and talked directly into the TV camera, referring occasionally to notes.

He read from an independent audit of the fund which absolved him of any personal gain from the fund.

Then he outlined a personal financial history, beginning with the story of his life.

When he got to the year of his marriage, 1940, he described it as "the greatest thing that ever happened to me."

He told of his South Pacific naval service in World War Two.

"I just happened to be where the bombs were falling," he said in explanation of battle stars he had earned.

He said he averaged $1,500 a year from speaking engagements during his term as a congressman.

He told of his $41,000 home in Washington on "which we still owe $20,000."

"I own a 1950 Oldsmobile car," he continued.

"Pat doesn't have a mink coat," he quipped, in reference to administration scandals of the past year.

"She does have a good respectable Republican cloth coat," he added.

He told of one gift—a cocker spaniel pup, given him by a Texan.

"We're going to keep him, no matter what happens," said Nixon.

"I believe it is fine that a man like Gov. Stevenson—who inherits his money from his father—can run for president."

"I also think it is fine that a man of modest circumstances can also run."

He challenged Gov. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, and Sen. Sparkman to "come before the American people and make a complete financial statement as I have."

Unclenching his clenched hands, he gestured as he said that contributions had gone "directly into the pockets" of Stevenson appointees. He referred to a disclosure that Illinois citizens contributed to a fund for state workers which Stevenson said was used to "attract good men to appointive public office."

His report over 62 television and more than 750 radio stations climaxed nearly a week of charges that the GOP nominee was guilty of unethical and illegal practices.

But Nixon denied he received a cent of the $18,000; and he denied that it was wrong for him to have accepted the money to help pay extra expenses of his Senate office.

He read a statement from attorneys retained by Eisenhower national headquarters to study the legal aspects of the case:

"It is our conclusion that Sen. Nixon did not obtain any financial gain from the collection and disbursement of the fund by Dana Smith trustee of the fund."

"That Sen. Nixon did not violate any federal or state law by reason of the operation of the fund."

"And that neither the portion of the fund paid by Dana Smith directly to third persons, nor the portion paid to Sen. Nixon to reimburse him for designated office expenses, constituted income to the senator which was either reportable or taxable as income under applicable tax laws."

The report was signed by the Los Angeles law firm of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher.

Nixon's staff made public an accompanying report by Price, Waterhouse & Co. showing:

Recorded contributions of $18,235 to the political fund.

Payments of $18,168.

Unexpended balance of $66.13.

Of the total in donations, the statement said $5,102 was paid to Nixon as reimbursement for expenses of his Washington office.

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared tonight that Sen. Richard M. Nixon is a "brave man" — a statement indicating the presidential nominee's hope the California senator will remain on the GOP ticket.

Eisenhower told 11,000 persons jammed into Cleveland's public hall tonight that he believed Nixon — under fire for accepting funds from a privately raised expense fund — had stood up for what Nixon believes to be right in a radio-television broadcast from California.

The Republican presidential nominee did not immediately say what his own decision was about retaining Nixon on the ticket.

But he told the massed, shouting and cheering crowd that he had "thrown away" a prepared speech on inflation to comment on Nixon's explanation of his financial operations.

Saylorsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Snyder, daughter Bertha and son Leon, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kostenbader, returned home after a 33-day trip through the Southwest. They traveled as far as Mexico, Mexico and passed through 12 states. They also took 22 motion picture films while on their trip.

They visited Colorado Springs, Pikes Peak, Seven Falls, Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon and Zion National Park, and took a harbor cruise in San Diego. While in Hollywood they toured the studios. In Los Angeles they visited Mrs. Arlene Krause, formerly of Northampton. In San Francisco they visited Mrs. Sadie Stackhouse, formerly of Stroudsburg and Mrs. Anthony Wagner of Nazareth.

While in San Diego the Snyders and Kostenbaders were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fischer, formerly of Saylorsburg, who have made their home in California the past few years. They were the proprietors of the general store, now operated by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kresge.

The young people of the community enjoyed a hayride in the Ralph Van Buskirk truck to the football game in Stroudsburg Friday night.
